What's New In?

This is the main app that will do all the downloading for you.   It has a "dummy" camera as a "manual" mode. Once you have the image you want, you can simply select it. This means that you can download any image (JPEG, RAW, or TIFF) from any camera model supported by the app (and vise versa).   Since the image you want is selected by the dummy camera, you can leave this camera running at all times, leaving the computer free to do other tasks. When you're ready to download the image, just click the "Start" button and the entire process will be over in under a minute.   This is a commercial app. You can purchase it (after testing the demo version), if you wish.
