Built with Bootstrap. Easily add, edit, and manage images and elements. Drag-and-drop components like buttons, forms, and more. Don't get lost in all the settings and options. Just start creating and publish with CrossUI. Building interactive components You will have a wealth of options at your disposal when building your web application or website, including mixins, libraries and actions. You can easily obtain them from the library that you will find on your very first page by clicking on the tab that says 'Tools.' In the library, you can access all the actions, styles and elements and create an interactive element by dragging them to your website's page. Layout support for Bootstrap Bootstrap is an attractive framework that helps you to create a responsive layout that will look great on all devices. While with many website builders you need to pay for each column, with CrossUI you can create columns from scratch. The app also provides you with a neat css based converter that lets you convert most of the available icons available in Bootstrap to the ones in CrossUI. Moreover, you can change most of the properties of the available elements and even customize the size, color and font.
