See §§ 453.001(1), 453.002(1). The fact that either person could be the children's only parent, who exercised physical custody, presents a fact question as to which person should be the primary caretaker. See In re D.P.M., 568 S.W.2d at 309. The trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to make an express finding of a material and substantial change of circumstances. Point of error number four is overruled. JURISDICTION OVER DETAILED CHILD SUPPORT ORDER In its final point of error, the mother asserts that the trial court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to order the father to pay the specified child support, in view of his sworn affidavit in which he voluntarily appeared and waived all defenses, including any claim to lack of subject matter jurisdiction. See Tex.Fam.Code Ann. § 11.041 (Vernon 1986). She argues that his participation in a suit without contesting jurisdiction should not deprive the trial court of that jurisdiction. In his cross-point, the father argues that the trial court lacked subject matter jurisdiction because the mother's divorce action is void due to defects in the service of citation. He argues that because the court did not obtain jurisdiction over the person of the father, who was a party to the divorce action, the court was without jurisdiction to award child support.

Tex.Fam.Code Ann. § 11.041. In support, he cites Ex parte Shields, 659 S.W.2d 552 (Tex.App.
Austin 1983, no writ). The father admits, however, that the Shields case has been overruled. See Ex parte Scott, 601 S.W.2d 364, 366 n. 1 (Tex.Civ.App.�
