Artificial intelligence has been making its way into our lives for quite some time. From the video game "Rayman Legends" to help us draw, to the retail stores of Amazon, the technology has advanced to the point where it's not just being used for scientific and engineering purposes. The Internet of Things (IoT), also known as the Machine-to-Machine Network (M2M), will allow many different devices, objects and even people to be connected and wirelessly communicate with one another to have these devices automatically react and work together. Here are five ways AI is improving our lives by smartly using IoT technology. Mapping AI has been implemented to provide incredibly detailed mapping of cities. Cities like New York and San Francisco are using facial recognition technology to create a more robust image of where people in that city live. The technology is used to identify faces and compare that with data such as age and gender. Once an image is created, it can then be merged with other data to create a more accurate map of that city. Automated Account Closure Automated account closing is a feature that's available to many online banking services. So how does AI affect this process? Well, when you try to access your account, if a similar transaction is on file, the bank will automatically know how much money you have in there and can close the account. This is exactly how AI has SteamQ: update and add action to jQuery dataTables New to jQuery and dataTables, and I need some help: I have a jQuery dataTable displaying events. I need to add a search box that will start filtering the table on row change (updating the table each time), and also add an edit button to each row. Any help much appreciated A: The sort, search and select options can be added at dom ready and as follows $(document).ready(function () { var dataTable = $('#example').DataTable({ initComplete: function () { this.api().columns().every(function () { var column = this; $('", { class : 'form-control', value : column.title, placeholder: column.title }).appendTo($(column.footer()).empty()); }); } }); }); I know this is old, but hopefully will help someone in future (or I might get paid by SO)

A: Here you go: `$(document).ready(function () { $('#some e79caf774b`
